

last night i e-mailed the nfl and many of the sponsors of the superbowl. my family along with many others found the display at half time to be disgusting.

first you had p.diddy with a very verbage not fit for adults. then you had the second man who either had the worse case of jock itch or just plan liked to play with himself.

then you had cheerleaders who wanted to "strip" it off and then did strip off about half thier clothing.

at this time my husband and many other men as well as women turned off the channel. this was a family day to enjoy the sport of football. many children were subject to this immoral display over the tv.

friends then came in to tell us that miss jackson had gone even lower to "strip". I am only glad we switched off just prior to that display. the morals of both jackson's are i find in the sewer.

i along with others have been in contact with the sponsors of this garbage and expressed our views. we wait to see what they as well as you do to stop this form of porno from airing on shows for families.

thank you for you assistance.
